The Story of George III - Thackeray's Beautiful and Touching Sketch.

A contemporary remarks that it is known that Queen Victoria has been laboring for many years past under at least one phase of mental infirmity. She has a firm conviction that Prince Albert is always present with her, and that she can hold communion with him. and that she cooms are arranged as they were then private rooms are arranged as they were when he was allve. His chair is placed oppo-she to her own in the library; and the books which he delighted to read to her are arranged lovingly, in order, upon the table. In some of her moods she will converse with him for an her moods she will converse with him for an hour together, conducting her own share of the conversation, alond, and with the vigor and interest of olden times. He had taughther by his example the success of his business enterprises especially by his management of the Dachy Cornwall—to superintend as much as m as much as possible all her private affairs herself, to reduce all unnecessary expen-ditures, and to forbid extravagance. Hence the greatest simplicity is observed at the Queen's table, and she imagines that her huscheen's table, and she imagines that her hits-band looks on, well pleased. At timer, when she is more than ordinarily impressed with a sense of his presence, the poor, lond woman will order a knife and fork to be placed on the will order a knife and fork to be placed on the dinner table for him, and cause the attendants to place every course before the empty chair as it the master still occupied it. Every morning a pair of boots are cleaned and set down against the door of the chamber which he once occupied; and at breaktast, when in Sociland, she will often sit a long time in silence, waiting for the Prince. The Queen's strong belief in the communion of the living with the spirits of the dead, she of the fiving was a sort of theosophist—a some-thing between Jacob Behmen, the mystic, and J. G. Fichte, the philosopher of transcendertallsm. Whatever may be thought of it as a sober, common sense people, it is to Victoria a source of great consolation, and she often a source of great consolation, and she often talks with the Prince concerning the state of the soul after death. She has been gradually withdrawing from public life for some years past, and lives in a world of her own. Her harp and her easel are both neglected, and she neither sings, plays, nor paints, except at rare intervals, when she will sweep her harp striggs for a tew noments in memory of some rare intervals, when she will sweep her harp strings for a few moments in mamory of some sweet German air that her husband loved to sing or to have sung.

"Simple, stabborn, affectionate, bigoted" George HI—grandfather to her gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria—nas been sadly brought to mind again by the extraordinary statements attributed (whether falsely or not, the sable telegraphers are not agreed) to Mr. Discable telegraphers are not agreed) to Mr. Dis-raell. Should the condition of the Queen be really what Mr. Disraelt is reported to have declared it is, the theory concerning congenia disorders, we wall or physical, will find a sig-

The third George "worked according to his lights," so Thackeray tells us in the masteriy sketch in which the Farmer King is vividi, pleured—"What virtue he knew he tried to practice: what knowledge he could master he strove to acquire. He wished nothing but good—therefore, every man who did not agree with him was a scoundrel. Pure in his life, courageous and honest, the awful will of Heaven made him dult of comprehension, ob-atinate of will, and at many times deprived him of reason." Victoria is as pure in her lie as her grandfather was; not, perhaps, as "sociable," chatty, unreserved as he, but still "sociable," chatty, unreserved as he, but still a good whe, good mother, and conscientions as a woman, it us-less as a ruler—but since the death of the Prince Consortishe has rarely appeared in public, and has taken searcely any other part in affidirs than that of offixing the royal signature, and by seduously abstaining from the duties incumbent upon the monarch, has made herself the subject of sharper animadversion than Englishm in have been wont to bestow on their kings and queens. Her gloomy mood and her continued sectuations have unquestionably given some degree of color to the rumors which have been industriou-ly circulated without authori tailve contradiction.

It is interesting to refer to the history of George III, in order to trace the progress of his mais 1y—and we again quote from Thacke-ray, who says: "All history presents no Sadder figure than that of the old man, ofind and de-prived of reason, wandering through the rooms of his palace, addressing imaginary parliaments, reviewing isnoied troops, holding ghostly courts." And then the kludly satirist goes on:

irist goes on:

"I have seen his picture as it was taken at this time, hanging in the apartments of his daughter, the Landgravine of Hesse Homboury—amidst books and Windsor Intuiture, and a hundred f.ind reminiscences of her Engthen home. The p or old father is represented in a purple gown, his snowy beard falling over the breast—the star of his lamous Order sith idly shining on it. He was not only sightless. came utterly deaf. All light, all reason light tucld moments he had, in one of which the Queen, desiring to see him, entered the room, and found him singing a hymn and acelf with a harpsichord. Whe o mpanying himself with a narpstendrd, when he had finished, he kn-it down and prayed aloud for her, and then for his family, and then for the nation, concluding with a prayer for himself, that it might please God to avert his heavy calamity from him, but if not, to give him resignation to submit. He then burst into tears, and his reason again fied."

THE SURRENDER OF SEDAN.

An Old Letter from the German Prime

The Paris Figaro publishes the following as the letter addressed by Prince Bismarck to his wife after the surrender of the Emperor Napoleon at Sedan; VENDRESSE, September 3. My Dear Heart - The day before yesterday, ere oreak of day, I left these quarers. To-day I return. In the interval, I have dived through the great battle before Sedan of the 1st of Sep tember, where we made thirty thousand pris oners; and the rest of the French army, which we pursued from Bar-ir-Daie, we have driven into a fortress, where it will be oblized to surrender with the Emperor. Yesterday morning, at five o'clock, after having remained up till one with M de Molike and the French generals deliberating on the conditions of the capitulation, I was awakened by General Reitle, whom I know, and who came to me to say that Napoleon wished to speak to me. Without washing or breakfusting, I got upon horseback, rode towards Sedan, and met the Emperor, accompanied by three aldes-de-camp, in a carriage with six horses, waiting in the road. I got off my horse, saiuted as politely as at the Tulleries, and asked what were his orders. He said he desired to see the King. I ansoners; and the rest of the French army, which He sald he desired to see the King. I answered, what was true, that his Mulesty was three miles off, in the place I write to you from. He asked where he should go, and as I did not know the localities. I offered him my quarters at Donchery, a little village on the banks of the Meuse, at a short distance from Sedan. He accepted, and resumed his way with his escert conducted by myself and Charles, who had joined me in the morning At a short distance from there, in expecta ior At a short distance from the return a specie, he eaked me if he could alight at the little nouse of an artisan situated on the road. I had it visited by Charles, who reported that it was poor and unclean. "N'important that it was poor and unclean." ported that it was poor and unclean. "N'importe," replied the Empetor, and we as cended the narrow tottering staircase. The cented the harrow contents stateds. The room was ten feet square, with a deal table and two straw chairs. We remained there an hour, the Emperor and me. The escort stopped below. What a striking contrast to our last interview in 1867 at the Tulleries! Our conversation was difficult, for I did not wish to speak of things which would palability effect one who had near overthrough. fully affect one who had been overthrown by the hand of the Almighty. I had sent to Sedan in quest of some officers, and to beg M. Molke to come. We afterwards sent one of these officers to reconnoitre, and discovered half a league off, at Fiernois, a small chatean with a park. I conducted the Emperor there with an escort of Culrassiers of the Guard, with an escript of comassers of the chart, which I had sent for while waiting. It was there that we concluded with General Wimpffen the captiniation, in virue of which from 40,000 to 60,000 Frenchmen, with all they possessed, became our prisoners. The day sessed, became our prisoners. The day before yesterday cost France 100,000 mer and an Emperor. To-day the latter departs with his suct, horses and his carriages for Wilhelmshohe, near Cassel. It is an historical event which inverests all the word. It is a victory for which we would humbly thank God, which decides the war, even if we should be obliged to continue it against France without an emperor. I mus against France without an emperor. I must falsh. It is with heartful pleasure that I l-a ned to day from your letters and those of Marie the news of Gerbert's arrival. I spoke yesterday with Blit, as I have already telegraphed, and with M —, who was thrown from his horse in the ranks. He is well and cheertul. I have seen Hans Fritz, Carl —, Balow —. All are well.

Farewell, my heart; kiss the children.

Your B."

Obsequies at St. Philip's Church of the Late C. N. Hubert.

The funeral services of this gentleman were performed in St. Philip's Church resterday morning, at half-past nine o'clock, by the Rev. John Johnson, in the presence of the many friends of the deceased in this city and a number of colored persons. The body had lain in state through the night in the vestibule of the church in a rich coffin, enclosed in a case, covered with black broadcloth, and strewn with evergreens and white roses, intertwined in wreaths. At the appointed hour, Mr. Johnson walked down the central aisle from the chancel to the vestibule, and the body was borne up the aisle by nine colored pall-bearers, preceded by the clergyman and followed by the regular pall-bearers. two abreast and eight in number. The colord pall-bearers were composed of stevedores and cotton menders who had been brought into business relationship with Mr. Hubert. The regular pall-bearers were Colonel A. O. Andrews, Messrs. Henry Gourdin, B. C. Wil kins, Williams Middleton, L. D. Mowry, A. R. Tuft, J. Drayton Ford, and J. J. Pringle Smith. After the reading of the 15th chapter of 1st Corinthians by the clergyman, the hymn, "Jesus, saviour of my soul," was sung by the choir with much sweetness and pathos The services being concluded, the body was taken to Magnolia ud interred in the family burylog ground.

ARREST OF THE RIKERSVILLE MURDBRER. Samuel Gail, the negro who shot John Johnson at Rikersville on Sunday afternoon, was arrested a short time after the shooting by a colored man named Edward Marshall. Mar shall carried his prisoner to the upper Guardhouse, reaching there about haif-past six o'clock. The arrest was made on the Meeting street road, a short distance above Rikersville. Yesterday morning Gall was taken before the Mayor, who ordered him to be held If not disposed of by that day the goods will subject to the order of the coroner.

OUR NEW YORK STEAMSHIPS .- The monster steamships of the New York Iron line are commencing to bring South the extensive rreights which only ships of near 2000 tons can carry. The South Carolina, which arrived on sunday from New York, had an immense volume of merchandise for every part of the southwest, extending from Memphis on the Mississippl, and Mobile on the Gulf to all the interior points. The volume of goods turned out by these ships are enormous, and they carry freights of a size nowhere else equalled on the coast. We expect soon to learn that they are bringing cargoes for New Orleans, Texas, and all points west of the Mississippi. Their motto is, onward.

INQUEST .- John Johnson, the negro who was shot by Simon Gail at Rikersville on Sunday afternoon, died at the City Hospital about eleven o'clock Sunday night from the effects of the wounds received in the encounter. A jury of inquest was impanelled yesterday by Deputy Coroner Dolan, which adfourned without taking teatimony to meet in the coroner's office at ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

A post mortem examination was made by Dr. Buist and his assistants on the body of Johnson, at the City Hospital, yesterday morning. It was found that both balls had passed through the stomach, perforating the left lobe of the liver, and lodged among the muscles in the back, thereby producing copious internal hemorrhage and, ultimately, death.

THE FALL TRADE OPENING .- The advertising columns of THE NEWS, always a sensitive and accurate barometer of the condition of the commerce of Charleston, contain this morning the attractive announcement of the first grocery house of the city to make its annual pid for its share of the fall trade. The ploneer this year is the old and substantial house of W. H. Chafee & Co., of No. 207 East Bay, who offer to their many customers throughout the Southeastern States a remarkably full line of all the staples of the grocery, wine, liquor and provision trade, as well as an extensive assortment of all the delicacles of the table, the sideboard and the cellar, known to that trade. The specialties of Messrs. Chaiee & Co. are Exton's premium Trenton crackers, Mc-Ewan's sparkling Edinburgh ale, Guinness's stout and Bass's pale ale, for all of which they hold the agency in this part of the country, and can, therefore, offer superior inducements

SECOND GRAND GIFT CONCERT

DAY OF THE DRAWING FIXED.

NO POSTPONEMENT FROM SEP-

TO THE PUBLIC:

TEMBER 28.

The Trustees of the Public Library of Kentucky, being satisfied from the large sale of tickets already made, and the daily increasing demand for them, that there will be no occasion.

A sufficient cierical force is engaged to keep up with the orders for tickets, and, in order that this cident to the business for the week or two immediately preceding the Drawing, agents especially, and those desirous of precaring tickets, are requested to send in their orders immediately. as sales will have to be closed in time to make the necessary preparations for the Drawing. It is the wish of the management to fill every order for a ticket, as well as to sell all the tickets, but those who apply first must first be supplied; and if those who put off buying until sales are closed have their money returned, instead of the tickets ordered, as in the First Gift Concert, in December last, when thousands of dollars that came too late were sent back, they will have none to blame but themselves.

UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION OF 1854 ALF. LABARRAQUE AND Co

QUINIUM LABARRAQUE Approved by the Imperial Academy of Medicine

The Quintum Labarraque is an eminently onic and febrifuge Wine, destined to replace all the other preparations of Peruvian Bark. The Bark Wines usually employed inmedicine are prepared from Barks which vary considerably in the degree to which they possess the desired properties. Besides, owing to the manner in which they are prepared, these Wines contain scarcely more than the traces of active principles, and these always in variable proportions.

The Quinium Labarraque, approved by the Academy of Medicine, constitutes, on the contrary, a medecine of determined composition, rich in active principles, and on wich Physicians and Patients can always rely. The Quinium Labarraque is prescribed with great success for persons of weak contitution, or for those debilitated by various exhausting causes or past sickness; for youths fatigued by too rapid growth; for young girls whose development takes place with difficulty; for women in childbirth; and for aged persons enteebled by years or illness. It is the best preservative against Fevers. In cases of Calorosis, Anemia, or Greensikness, this Wine is a powerful auxiliary of the ferruginous preparations. In conjunction, for example, with Vallet's Pills, the rapidity of its action is really marvellous. Veret in Parts, L. FRERE, 19, rue Jacob.
